

Standard Instructions for Video Assessments for EduBits

These guidelines are standard instructions for EduBit assessments where you are required to produce a video as evidence of assessment.

*Always open your video link and check it opens and can be watched when you submit this as evidence.

Equipment – all you need is a smartphone camera capable of recording video, with audio capability. To download the video from your phone you will either need access to Wi-Fi or data.

Security of video – the video will only be viewed by the marker and stored if identified for post-moderation purposes. Check with your employer before videoing to ensure it is ok to create the video at work. Always seek permission if there are any other people in the video.

Length – refer to the assessment criteria for any maximum video length required.

Should I edit the video? - this is up to you. You can if you wish, however the video should contain the evidence required in the criteria.

Can someone else take the video? – yes, that’s fine as long as the assessment steps are followed.

Audio - must be on during the whole video.

Quality of video and audio – the quality of the video and audio needs to be good enough to be clearly viewed and heard by the marker to assess the skills/tasks being shown.

Hints to ensure your video can be marked

Plan – plan and practice the skill/tasks you are required to perform several times before producing the video.

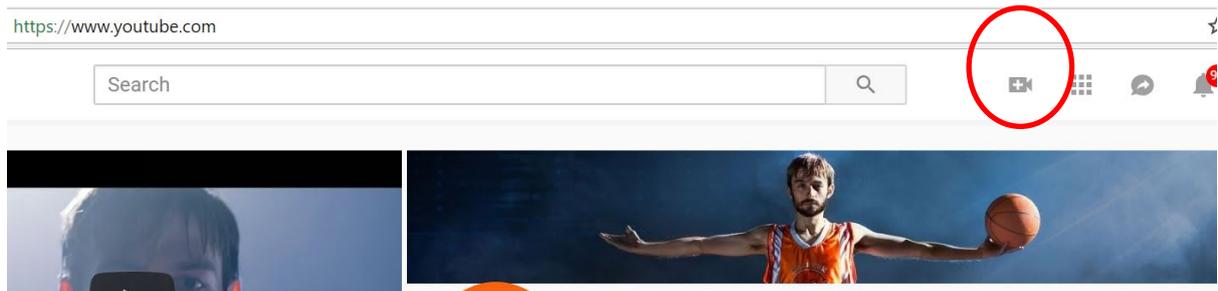

Video – if someone else is recording the video, they should rest their hands on something, e.g. a table or bookshelf, to help keep steady. If you are doing it yourself, rest the phone on something but make sure you are in the shot. A wide shot is generally preferable although some close-ups may be needed. Avoid filming towards bright lights or the sun.

Audio - choose a time of day and place to take the video where other noises are unlikely to interrupt the audio. Work off notes and practice reading these out to ensure you say what you need to within the maximum video time.

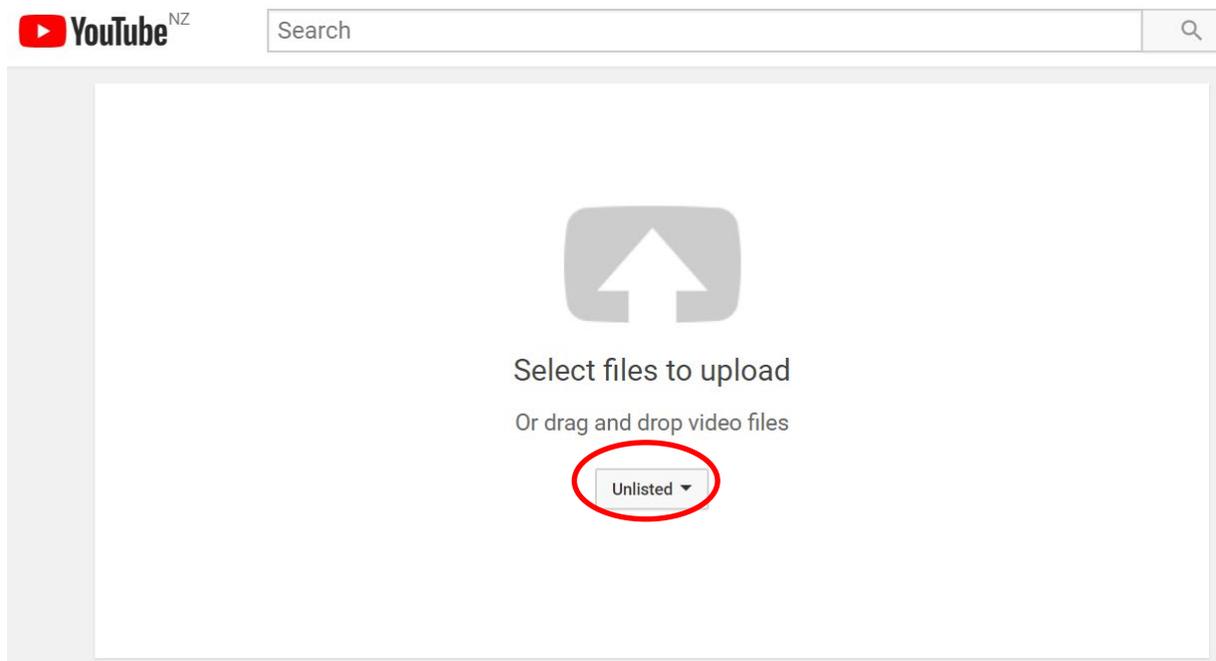

Review – watch and listen to the video before you submit it. Check that you have covered the skills/tasks required in the assessment criteria. If you are not completely happy, repeat the video.
